Corrections last issue: (1) On page 5 we stated that IM Daniel Fernandez is from Peru. Although born there he grew up in Florida, where he won many scholastic titles. (2) On page 28 the game Lozano-Stanley from the San Antonio City Championship gave the wrong player as White; it should have been Andrew Nathanael Lozano, not Jesse.

Back in green: Jose Silva wins his second all-Army championship

Three-time San Antonio city champion NM Jose Silva, a medical specialist in the Army Reserve, was reactivated last November and sent to Fort Lewis, Washington. Being on active duty meant Silva, 42, was eligible to play in the All Army Chess Championship in April. He tied for first with Chris Pitts of Fort Bliss, Texas.

In May he placed third in the inter-service championship with 5.5 out of 7. And in June he went played in the NATO championship (as he did in 1995), where he finished with 4.5/7 for the best US performance!

Silva came with his family from Reynosa, Mexico to San Antonio in 1986. He joined the Army in 1993, and two years later gained the master title when he won the All-Army championship and then tied for second in the NATO championship in Gausdal, Norway.

Silva says he will be back home by November.

Wounded Warriors program brings chess to injured veterans

by J.P. Hyltin

Fort Sam Houston is home to the Warrior Family Support Center, a facility dedicated to providing a nurturing environment for "Wounded Warriors", soldiers recovering and rehabilitating from injuries, and to accommodate their families during their stay. On Tuesday, Aug. 11, I was invited to teach a chess lesson there by William Yates, a program associate of the center. I was treated to a meal and a tour of the facility which is roughly like a large home with some extras unique to the mission they serve. Except for the size, the rooms are not unlike a large den in any other middle American home, where you can comfortably watch movies, read, take online classes, or hold small group meetings. Other areas of the facility allow soldiers and their families to cook meals, dine. I met army chaplains, several wounded soldiers, and volunteers.

As for the class, turnout for this event was light, consisting of four soldiers, some of their family members, and several facility volunteers. The club is in some transition, changing to meeting on Monday nights, beginning about 6, running until 8. My lesson was an overview of chess philosophy, related to key positions in a few games. The lesson was well received, and afterward those in attendance played on for about an hour as I offered help where I could.

A fledgling chess club faces challenges, mostly in establishing consistency in the experience. Changing nights won't help, but it was necessary. Changing member is inevitable for this situation. So, why try? Yates explained to me the importance of this program, that it

Minutes of Fall 2008 TCA Meeting

held in Dallas, Aug. 31, 2008

Submitted by TCA Secretary Robert Sturgeon

Note: The date above is not a typo. Our webmaster, Peter Kappler, noted that the TCA website lacked minutes for Fall 2008 and Spring 2009 and asked for my copies. I noted that they were never received. Robert Sturgeon found his copy for Fall 2008, and Bob James (who filled in for Sturgeon the Spring meeting) also sent his copy of the Spring 2008 minutes. Better late than never!

Members in Attendance: Lakshmana Viswanath, Luis Salinas, Carmen A. Chairez, Robert B. Jones, Tom Crane, Alexy Root, Ross Lynn Leone, Barb Swafford, Clemente Rendon, Selby Anderson, Rodney Thomas.

Clemente Rendon, acting TCA president, started the meeting promptly at 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 31, 2008.

1. The minutes of the last meeting, posted on the web site, were accepted as posted, and passed 11-0.

2. The financial report, as reported in the [July-Aug. 2008] issue of Texas Knights, was explained and updated. The checking accounts, savings accounts, and Certificate of Deposit current balances were given. The Financial Report was accepted and passed 11-0.

3. The President's Report was given by Clemente Rendon, who spoke to the TCA finances, directions for the new year, and concerns and projects for the next term.

4. Old Business. Luis Salinas motions on proposed By-laws changes were referred to the Bylaws Subcommittee.

5. Rob Jones reported the election results. Elected for the new term was Clemente Rendon - President, Lakshmana Viswanath - Vice-President, Robert Sturgeon - Secretary, and Barbara Swafford - Treasurer/

6. The following Tournament bids were passed 11-0 and awarded to Luis Salinas:

- a. Texas Grade 2009
- b. Texas Amateur 2009
- c. Southwest Open 2009
- d. Texas Scholastic 2010

7. The bid for the 2012 Texas Scholastic was accepted and awarded to TCA., to be run by Luis Salinas. Passed 11-0.

Minutes of Spring 2009 TCA Meeting

held in McAllen, Mar. 21, 2009

Submitted by Bob James

The meeting was called to order by President Clemente Rendon at 8:30 p.m. Eleven members were present, and three Board members were present. In the absence of the secretary, Bob James was appointed to take minutes.

I. Reading of the Minutes – Waived.

II. Financial Report – very close to that published in the March/April edition of Texas Knights.

a. 2 regions had sent in Regional Dues, still waiting on others.

b. Income since then was about $2,500 with expenses of around $6400 mostly for Texas Knights and World Youth costs.

c. Balances

i. $2600 in Wells Fargo Checking

ii. $1200 in Bank of America Checking

iii. $8500 in Savings

iv. $26,000 in a CD to mature in July 2009

III. President's report

a. First time for the State Tournament to be held in the Valley. Things were going well.

b. The Texas State and Amateur will be held in San Antonio in May.

c. UTB will be hosting the Pan Am and the Final Four in the Valley.

d. Lots of involvement from the Regional Directors – there is a bright future.

e. We should focus on the reports of increasing membership.

f. Finances are healthy – we need to continue programs to promote chess.

g. The TCA Tournament Membership fee is $2.00 for Major tournaments, $1.00 for minors. Discussion arose as to why the change occurred.

IV. Old Business – none

V. New Business

a. Motion by Luis Salinas Article 9 Section 1 Paragraph P: Change from the present to include <Grades 11 and 12 may be combined if a scholarship is at stake.> Motion passed unanimously.

b. Motion that Motion #1 go into effect immediately. Passed Unanimously.

c. There was a report on the Educational Conference directed by Rusty Harwell. Motion that TCA have a Chess in Education workshop during the 2010 Texas Scholastic Championships.

My Experience at the Denker Tournament

by William Ong

This was my first time attending the Denker Tournament of High School Champions. This year it was held in Indianapolis, Indiana from August 1-4 with a total of 48 participants. I was excited to be able to compete at the Denker, and I hoped for the best.

Getting to Indianapolis proved to be rather difficult. My estimated time of departure kept having half-hour increments until it was up to a delay of three hours. Apparently the pilot of our plane in Houston was in Tennessee. I don't know how that can happen... Anyway, I eventually arrived in Indianapolis at the Marriott hotel, checked into a room, and fell asleep. By the next day it was time for registration, the opening ceremony, and my first round.

When I registered, I received a coupon for free entry into the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Museum. The museum featured many old racecars and even allowed you to take a tour around the racetrack.

After that was the opening ceremony, where I learned about the history of the Denker Tournament, and I also received some memoirs such as a medal and a collectible card of former GM Arnold Denker.

After that, the tournament was underway. Out of six rounds, I achieved a score of 3.5. I was certainly disappointed in my result; I was ranked 14th out of the 48 competitors and came in 14th.

It may have been because of my rough start. I drew my first round as white, I was playing a QGD against the Tarrasch Defense, and I did not take the isolated d-pawn when I had the opportunity; as a result, he was able to defend it.

My second round I was paired up to Jeffrey Haskel from Florida. I was simply outplayed in time pressure after taking a pawn which happened to give him more than enough compensation.

I won my next three rounds, and I was most satisfied with this game, my fifth round versus Ryan Farell from Oklahoma.

Benoni Defense A74

William Ong 2083

Ryan Farell 1924

Denker HS Tmt. 2009 (5)

1.d4 c5 2.d5 g6 3.Nf3 Bg7 4.c4 d6 5.Nfd2

I play this to avoid any chance of a pin with Bg4 after I play e4.

5...e6 6.e4 exd5 7.cxd5 Nf6 8.Be2 O-O 9.Nc3 a6 10.a4

A typical Benoni-like position.

10...Ne8

He wants to try ...f5?...which will weaken his kingside. [The main lines are 10...Nbd7 and 10...Re8.]

11.O-O f5 12.exf5 Bxf5 13.a5 g5

Black can't develop with Nd7 because of g4...f5 was probably not a good choice, but I don't think g5 helps him.

14.Nde4 h6 15.Ng3 Bg6 16.f4

16...gxf4 17.Bxf4 Qh4 18.Bg4 Bd4+ 19. Kh1 Kh7

Probably better for Black here is 19...Nd7 or 19...Ng7, as he needs to get his pieces into the game.

20.Bh5 Rxf4

A mistake; however other options such as 20...Bxh5 are not appealing either.

21.Bxg6+ Kxg6 22.Rxf4 Qxf4

I overlooked 23.Qd3+, which is probably stronger than what I played:

23.Qh5+ Kh7 24.Qxe8 Qe5 25.Re1 Qf4

This loses immediately. [On 25...Qxe8 26.Rxe8, Black faces Na4-b6 winning a piece, or else having his pawns picked by Ne4-d6-c4.]

26.Re7+ Bg7 27.Rxg7+

To be followed by 28.Nh5+ and 29.Qe7+ [or 29.Nxf4]. He resigned.

1-0

In my sixth and final round versus Steven Breckenridge from Oregon, I blundered a pawn and then blundered again when optimistic about getting compensation.

So while I was disappointed in my result, the Denker Tournament of High School Champions was a great experience and I thank all who made it possible for me to go. ♞

Canadian Open attracts Texas sunbirds

The Canadian Open was held July 11-19 in Edmonton, Alberta. The massive 203-player event was studied with titled players, including nine GMs. However, pre-tournament favorites Shirov and Adams were held to draws in the last round, leaving two Canadians tied for first with 7.5/9: GM Mark Bluvshtein (first on tiebreaks) and IM Edward Porper, Austin's roving duo of Michael Langer and Joe Bradford played, and if nothing else got a respite from the Texas heat. Of course, having traveled 2,000 miles they got to play each other in round seven! (See next page.) Even more amazingly, Langer notes, the two had never played a rated tournament game before!

Langer finished 6-3, in tie for 22nd place. Bradford dropped out a round early and finished with 5.

Malazarte tops Summer Slammer in S.A.

by Selby Anderson

We tried a novel format for our club's end-of-summer tournament, with one section, seven rounds and game/60 time control. The response for the Summer Slammer (San Antonio, Aug. 22-23) was a healthy turnout of 45 players, close enough to quota that we paid 100% of the $1,100 prize fund.

Andrew Istafanous, 11, had a breakout result with his first draw and his first win against experts. He finished 4.5/7 in a strong field, and took second Class B prize.

Three players from Corpus Christi won prizes: Paul Haney (=2nd), Ray Bulacanag (1st Class B) and Ethan Rodriguez, age 9 (2nd U1600).

Top-rated FM Michael Langer of Austin played the role of piñata for local experts Mitch Vergara and Ernesto Malazarte, who clipped him for losses in Rds. 4 and 6.

Between those games he had a close brush with defeat at the hands of Texas Amateur champ Paul Haney (who had beaten Langer at the recent Houston Open) – but the newly expert-rated player from Corpus Christi choked on a rather simple crush. Speaking of which...

In the final round with draw odds against Malazarte, I was in time pressure but with a solid pawn plus. He tried a bold sacrifice, which left me only one way to save (and win) the game: a desperate-looking rook sacrifice. I even considered it, but didn't play it. That cost me $200!

Malazarte was similarly down a pawn to Langer in Rd. 6, but there too he found hidden resources that his opponent underestimated.

Martin Gordon directed for SACC.

The Weaver Adams line, sort of a smarty-pants comment on 5...a6. Adams (1901-1963) was a throwback to caveman style chess, and he derided "inchworm gambits".

6...b5 7.Nd5 Nxd5
 This leads to a lasting cramp in Black's position. Some old Fischer analysis goes 7...Bb7 8.Nxf6+ gxf6 9.c4 Bxe4 10.cxb5 Bg7 11.Qg4 Bg6 12.Nf3 0-0-.

This knight was screening the black queen's defense of the f-pawn. An easy crush would have been 25.Bc2 Bxd5 26.Rxf5!, forcing mate or winning the queen by 26...Qxe6 27.Re5+-.

This would have put Haney on a 2-0 roll against Langer, after his victory in the recent Houston Open.

After years of nothing but 13.a4,
I have been experimenting:

13.h4 Bh6 14.g3 Kh8 15.Bg2

Short has tried 15.Bh3!? There is a reason to facilitate this exchange...

15...Rb8 16.Ncb4 Nxb4 17.Nxb4
Bb7 18.0-0 f5

I was pleased to see this, because 18...a5 19.Nd5 with a later...Bxd5 (no hurry, it's not going away) is practically unwinnable.

19.exf5 Rxf5 20.Bxb7?

Unless White really wants to pick off the a6 pawn, 20.Qd3 is by far the more logical choice. The text helps Black coordinate his rooks on the f-file, even as it weakens the kingside light squares.

20...Rxb7 21.Kg2

Black gets at least a perpetual for the a-pawn: 21.Nxa6 Rbf7 22.Nc5!
(22.Nb4 Be3!=) 22...d5 23.Qb3 Qf6!
24.Qxb5 Rxf2 (White is almost

I award the “!” on psychological grounds. I had draw odds (i.e., I was a half point ahead of the field), so the rather lifeless book line 7.d4 e6 8.0-0 Na5= suited me perfectly.

The text offers a choice between equality with 7...Bg6 8.Nxg6 hxg6 9.d3 e6=, and a tempting opportunity to “punish” the sidelined knight and play for superiority:

provides several necessary ingredients in the recovery from injury for these soldiers. Chief benefits include the socialization experience and mental exercise, and that is what we hope this club provides.

I have been asked to come back for more appearances, and I am honored to do so. We have tentatively discussed one or two Mondays each month. There are few more humbling experiences than to serve those who paid such a high price in defense of our freedoms. I welcome this opportunity, and invite others to come along. Judging from the questions I fielded and the intensity of play I observed, this is a group eager to learn the game. [You may contact Fort Sam MWR at 210-916-8219.]
